

WIDOW OPENS FIGHT FOR MILLIONS WEDDED ESTATE

SECRET MARRIAGE BASED ON FORTUNE FOR FORTUNE

Claim Brother of Miss Wendel Deserted Love Bride After the Birth of a Child

Providence, R. I., March 19.—A. Wickford, widow and her two children, claiming to be descendants of a secret marriage un-revealed for 70 years, today engaged counsel and launched a fight for the $100,000 fortune of the New York Wendels.

When Miss Ella Wickford died last week in the fifth year, her widowship and her brother and sister had lived as recluses for many years. It was believed the last of the name and family had passed away.

LANDOWNER BACKS FIGHT.
Now comes the claim that John Gottlieb Wendel, Jr., brother of Miss Ella, a widow, and a New Hampshire girl son after graduating from Columbia University, the instance of his father after their first and only child was born.

The claimants are Mrs. Charles E. L. Hayward, husband, Edwin, 24, and son, Teddy, 11. In their bill, they allege that the late Wendel, a wealthy landowner, with whom the Mayhew family lived under the name of William Mayhew, was the father of the late Wendel's wife and child. A curious angle of the case is that John Gottlieb Wendel, Jr., said to have been the child's father, died in 1860, leaving no surviving issue, so that the money would always remain in the family.

WEDDING STORY BARED.
The complete story of the alleged marriage and events following was told by the Boston Evening American today by Edwin and Teddy Hayward, who said they had heard the story from their grandmother and mother.

Mrs. Hayward is ill in bed with a severe cold and could not be interviewed today at the farmhouse where they all live. John G. Wendel, Jr., said to be the father of the late Wendel's wife and child, was born in 1860, and married Hannah Holt. Lawton claims to have obtained a certificate of the marriage which was performed by a justice of the peace.

The following year a daughter, Bertha, was born. Soon after the husband and father died, leaving to his own family and new wife and child. Bertha grew up and married a man named David. The latter died in 1914. Mrs. David, who was employed by Lawton to nurse his wife. The latter died in 1914. Mrs. David, who was employed by Lawton to nurse his wife.

4 Vice Squad Police Indicted in New York
New York, March 19 (AP)—Four police vice squadmen, including one constable, are indicted today for conspiracy in connection with alleged framing of women. They were Sergt. Christopher C. O'Connor, William G. O'Connor, and William G. O'Connor, who had been a storm center in labor disputes for many years, was waived by shrewd associates and slain today as he left his home.

Crazed Father Kills Wife, Child and Self
New York, March 19 (AP)—A crazed father today killed his wife and child and himself in a home in the Bronx. The father, who was a farmer, was found by police after a neighbor called to report a fire. The father, who was a farmer, was found by police after a neighbor called to report a fire.

BUSINESS BOOM IS BEGGING, SAYS HABBOTT

Steel Institute Director is Optimistic After a Swing Around Country

By JAMES L. KILGALLAN, Copyright, 1931, by International News Service.

New York, March 19.—America's long anticipated business revival is about to begin—if, indeed, it hasn't already started—and the construction industry is leading the way.

"Feetmen is fast disappearing," Mr. Habbott repeated. "The country has been down and down to work. We are entering a new cycle of industrial activity."

Mr. Habbott studied optimistically at the desk in his New York office building and described the industrial sound and vision of the country. Only a week ago he visited Washington and made a report on the situation to President Hoover.

EDITOR'S NOTE.—In tomorrow's edition of the American Evening American, a magazine article of the former President's recollections of the business depression of 1930.

Washington, March 19 (AP)—Frank D. Comerford, president of the New England Power Association, said today that the Federal Trade Commission hearing in which he said testimony by Commissioner of the Federal Trade Commission had been "particularly interesting."

New York, March 19.—Calvin Coolidge's expenses as a maker of hot chocolate was challenged today by some prominent chefs. In a magazine article the former President's recipe was quoted.

'SIS, GEE, I WAS SCARED!'
The residents of the first of these purchases, a new group of houses, are now in the process of the original cost of the property. The purchaser of course, says his purchase of the houses at cost. It would be interesting to compare the assessed valuation of these lands now as compared with when they were purchased.

WILKINS CRAFT PEOPLE

Superstructure of Submarine Which Will Go to North Pole Is Praised by Naval Men

By HERMAN GIESKE, Copyright, 1931, by New York American, Inc. and King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Philadelphia, March 19.—Sir Hubert Wilkins' sturdy little steel whale, Nautilus, on which he and a company of 19 scientists and adventurers hope to voyage under the Arctic ice to the North Pole, put out to sea yesterday. It was bound for New York harbor on the first stage of a 20,000 mile journey.

The Nautilus skipper, Capt. Sloan Danaher, veteran former submarine officer of the United States Navy, was in command. He stated if all went well the world being the ship into port today.

PLANNED BY NAVAL OFFICERS.
Tuesday was spent by the Nautilus in picking up the ship's boat in shape for the run along the Jersey coast. Yesterday, when the Nautilus was operating in a blinding snowstorm, it was believed the boat could now use the power twin Diesel engines continuously for the remainder of the trip.

While the Nautilus will be able to remain five days under the ice without her officers and crew suffering for air, it will be necessary for her to come to the surface every 40 hours to recharge her batteries.

From New York harbor the Nautilus will move to New London, Conn., for deep sea diving. There she will move to Halifax, Nova Scotia, for submarine operations under the ice conditions similar to those expected at the North Pole.

Persons Hurt When Auto and Taxi Crash
Five persons were injured in a crash of an auto and a taxi at Boylston and Dartmouth streets last night. A machine, driven by Mrs. Helen Bardon, 58, of 21 Fernside street, West Roxbury, in which was riding her daughter, Jane, 16, collided with a cab operated by William C. Viets of 338 Norfolk street, West Roxbury.

buildings, but all the committee seems to think about is the erection of high schools. They are high school crazy. There are 6000 intermediate school children now housed in high schools in this city and they should be taken out.

"The members of the committee have not agreed here on a definite program, either of building or of financing. The reason they are all backed up is because of the central girls' high school which they are considering building."

Convention Hobos Not Allowed to 'Bum' Rides
Much has been said in the past about the hobo, a first-class hobo, but would take advantage of the cheap bus rates prevailing and ride to his destination. It is only first-class hobo that will be welcomed at the big hobo convention, which opens Saturday morning in headquarters at 388 Tremont st., to which leaders of the city, State and nation have been invited, including Mayor Curley and Governor Ely.

NO NEED OF SCHOOL
"There is absolutely no necessity for the construction of a central girls' high school as compared to the need of intermediate schools throughout the city."

WOMAN HAILED TO COURT FOR HORSEWHIPPING

WIFE ADMITS 'SONG BABY' IS NOT HER OWN

Kansas City, March 19 (AP)—Harmony was the keynote today in the home of a radio musician shaken with the revelation that a baby girl, Louise, his wife presented him New Year's eve was not her own.

F. A. Bartlett, 33, who dedicated a radio song to the child, said he would adopt her and was content in the fearful assurance of his wife that a five-year-old son, Junior, was of their blood. Mrs. Bartlett said another child, a daughter, seven, was born to her in a former marriage.

"We're going to keep the baby and be happy," Bartlett said. "Everything's all right."

Miss Winifred Dickinson, policeman, whose investigation of the disappearance of the child from the place of her birth revealed the deception, asserted Mrs. Bartlett had confessed all the children had been adopted.

"No, no," the wife cried. "Junior is ours. Mrs. Bartlett said she had fabricated the other story two months ago to convince police she could maintain the deception in her own home."

Lashed "Rival"

Mrs. Katherine Morrill, 45, of Main st., Brockton, who says she would be glad to go to jail for the horse whipping she administered to Mrs. Mae Andrews, 35, attractive divorcee.

VICTIM DENIES ASSAULT'S CHARGES

Brockton, March 19—Mrs. Katherine Morrill, who horsewhipped Mrs. Mae Andrews on Main st. yesterday, is charged with assault and battery in a complaint sworn out in district court today by Mrs. Andrews.

Mrs. Morrill is ordered to appear in court to answer to the charges tomorrow morning. While Mrs. Morrill, who is 45, admitted to reporters that she wielded the whip on Mrs. Andrews, the latter, an attractive divorcee, 35 years old, denied any friendship for the other woman's husband. Both women live on Main st. Mrs. Morrill at 80 and Mrs. Andrews at 106.

"I waited for Mrs. Andrews on Main st.," Mrs. Morrill stated. "I had the horsewhip under my coat."

SAYS 'RIVAL' LAUGHED
"When I saw her, I remonstrated with her because of the way she treated me. I begged her to leave me in peace. She just laughed at me."

Then I let her have it. I struck her with the whip across the mouth, and on the hand. She started to run. I followed her, and lashed her across the back. I didn't give her as much as she deserved. My husband and I were happy together for 14 years, until Mrs. Andrews came into our home."

DENIES CHARGES.
In denying Mrs. Morrill's charges the divorcee said:

"I never went out with Mrs. Morrill's husband. It's untrue that I broke up their home."

"But that woman has persecuted me until she's brought me to the verge of tears. Somebody has been sending police to my apartment at all sorts of inconvenient hours in an effort to find something wrong."

63 BACK FROM WEST INDIES

'DREAM BOY' A HORSEMAN

Do you recall the "Dream Baby" story that had to do with Hon. John Russell, his wife and baby Geoffrey, who was known as the "Dream Baby"? It stirred the world in 1923 when in a British court Russell denied parentage of the boy. His wife claims the little one as her "Dream Baby." The paternity of the boy was placed on Russell, the first heir to the Baron of Amphil, notwithstanding his protest. Little has been heard of the story in years, but here we have Geoffrey Russell, now 10, during a recent morning canter along the "Row," in London. Above he is shown as "Dream Baby," with his mother, during court days. (International Newsphoto photo.)

NOBLE LONGS FOR FREEDOM AS SPRING ECHOES IN CELL

'HAMMER' BOY READS TALES OF WEST

Lawrence, March 19—The call of the wide-open spaces has penetrated the walls of the local jail and reached the ears of Russell Noble, alleged hammer slayer of Mrs. Clara E. Ella, wealthy Haverhill widow.

Indications of spring as seen through barred windows in the form of singing birds and bright sunshine have warmed the mind of the 37-year-old youth to the plains of the West.

According to Keeper George Bunting, the Haverhill boy's yearning is expressed in a demand for Western stories, which he obtains from the jail library.

OMNIVOROUS READER
When first brought to the jail, Noble read detective stories and tales of crime, later shifting to sports.

Yesterday he told a guard that the glimpses of the outside world he obtained through jail windows indicated that spring was at hand and led his mind to the West.

Keeper Bunting said the boy is the most omnivorous reader he has ever had in the jail, and apparently has no desire for work.

VISITED BY COUNSEL
Yesterday he was visited by his counsel, Atty. Richard J. McCormick, who talked half an hour with Noble. He said the boy's attitude was unchanged, that he appeared to be in good spirits, and spent most of his waking time reading.

The youth's mentor, Rev. George E. Cary of the First Church of Christ, Congregational, also paid him a long visit. He said also that Noble was in good health, eating and sleeping well, and that he commented jokingly on the St. Patrick's Day riot in Brookline High school.

WIFE ACCUSES MEDFORD MAN

Edmund A. McCarthy, Medford plumber, "drank practically all the time," and abused her repeatedly, Mrs. Frances McCarthy testified today in her suit for separate maintenance in Middlesex Probate Court.

The McCarthy's were married in 1923, and on their wedding trip he refused her a nickel to buy a candy bar, she said.

The Misses Alice and Margaret McMahon, who lived in an apartment above the McCarthy's at 44 George st., Medford, testified of hearing screams from the apartment below on Christmas Eve, 1930.

They investigated and Mrs. McCarthy told them her husband had struck her in the face, they said.

Margaret McMahon testified she had known McCarthy three years, and that in that time had seen him drunk about 40 times. His drinking spree, she said, lasted two to four weeks.

"There are 52 weeks in a year," said John J. Hurley, McCarthy's attorney. "Three times 52 is 156. If he went on 40 drinks lasting four weeks each, he would have been drunk four weeks longer than you know him."

LLOYD GEORGE MAY SAVE DAY FOR LABOR

London, March 19 (AP)—Duration of the Labor government depended today, critics believed, on the solution of the crisis in the Liberal party, which probably will reach its head at a meeting of the Liberals next Tuesday.

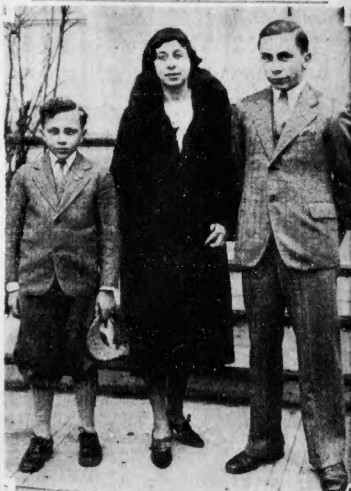

Unless David Lloyd George, nominal leader, can secure the loyalty of the bulk of his followers and rely on their co-operation in division of the cabinet, he obviously cannot guarantee that support to the government which it must have if it is to live. It is understood that he is using the interval until next Tuesday in attempting to reach an agreement with the government which will be endorsed by his own followers and Laborites as well.

Chinese Slayers of U. S. Women Seized

ESTELLE MAKES UP WITH JACK

Hollywood, Cal., March 19 (AP).—Estelle Taylor, wife of Jack Dempsey, denied that she and the former heavyweight boxing champion had had a serious "split" or contemplated a "definite break."

Dempsey, when he returned from New York a little more than a week ago, joined the film outfit at their Hollywood home. He came here to referee a boxing match.

Miss Taylor admitted they had a "minor disagreement," but said there was no significance to it.

"I have said nothing that would furnish a basis for a report that we are to be divorced," she said, "and that has not entered my mind."

"We patched up our differences by telephone while he was in Salt Lake City," Miss Taylor said.

Students Call Off

Strike at College

Washington, Pa., March 19 (AP).—Students of Washington and Jefferson College were pledged today by a resolution of fraternity and other campus organization representatives to bring in an end to improve a walkout started in protest of the regime of President Simon R. Baker.

Meanwhile President Baker was at his desk in fulfillment of his declaration that he would not resign. He denied there was any foundation for the complaints. Among them one that he discriminated unfavorably against college athletes.

U. S. HAS WORK FOR 60,000

New York, March 19 (AP).—John W. Phillips, director of the Federal Public Buildings in two years were predicted today by John W. Phillips, Assistant Postmaster-General.

Phillips said in an address here before the House Board of Trade that on the basis of present estimates, double that number would be needed for one year, with 60,000 to be employed for each $100,000,000 spent.

Approximately $504,000,000 is available for allocation within the next 19 years, he said, with $45,000,000 authorized for outside of the District of Columbia.

He added that $138,000,000 would be available this year for construction.

Two Boy Houdinis Are Still at Large

Claremont, N. H., March 19.—Two "boy Houdinis," one 17, and the other 15, were still free today more than 24 hours after they made a sensational escape from the jail at Claremont, N. H.

One of them, said by authorities to be a former inmate of the Lyman School at Westboro, Mass., is Leo Fitzpatrick, 15, of Chestnut st., Chelsea, Mass. His companion is George L. Merton, 17, of Newport, N. H.

Storm Damage Hits Million in Maryland

Baltimore, Md., March 19 (AP).—An unofficial estimate of damage approaching $1,000,000 was made today as reports drifted from the results of Monday's record snowstorm on the eastern shore of Chesapeake Bay.

Wire communications in this region was still demoralized today, and more than 100 telephone and telegraph repair men labored to erect broken poles and string new wires.

New Jersey Couple Plan World Flight

Paterson, N. J., March 19 (AP).—A round-the-world tour in a fancy-built plane is planned by Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Day. They will sit side by side in an open cockpit with dual controls.

While her's piloting, she will keep the log on a typewriter hitched to a swinging table. She is allotted 30 pounds for her efforts. He gets 90 pounds for clothes and tools. The plane will be crossed by steamer.

Pola Negri's Plea for Divorce Heard

Paris, March 19 (AP).—The divorce suit of Pola Negri, motion picture actress, against Prince Serge Malvint, charging that he abandoned her twice and refused to respond to a legal summons to resume married life, was argued today before the Seine Tribunal.

Neither principal appeared.

The judge indicated an appeal would fix a date for issuance of a final decree.

German Liners Will Alternate to Canada

Montreal, March 19 (AP).—The North German Lloyd and Hamburg American lines will alternate in a fortnightly schedule from Montreal to Hamburg and Bremen, Germany, next summer instead of maintaining competitive sailings.

Man About Town

By AL DUFFY

Just heard about a minister on Mt. Vernon St. who let a fellow on his dresser and got kicked and kissed while he slept. The next night she left five.

"The Unkindred Cut"—The other night, discussing the new legal headcases of Alexander Pantegies, the vaudeville man who JUST CAN'T keep out of court. Harry (Kath-Boston) Rice, recalled this echo of his last year's tribulations:

Pantegies was in a California court trying to defend himself against the charges of a chorus girl—with a stiff jail sentence just around the corner—and his wife had just been convicted after a "disagreeable trial" of letting a Japanese with her automobile. Then, to top it all, the vaudeville business was on its way to where no other businesses went last year.

One night the weary impresario came to his office after a bad day in court, thinking to find some consolation in opening his mail. Topping the pile was this wire from an offended horserider on one of Pantegies' minor vaudeville circuits who had been alighted in his boogie in a small corrallet town:

"If you don't give me back my spot on this hill, I'll make trouble for you."

GARRETT CASE IS COMPLETED BY STATE

John B. Roussel, former landlord and steward at Hotel Rita, took the stand today as first defense witness in the Oliver B. Garrett trial, and testified he never saw Mrs. Garrett at the hotel.

Roussel said he first saw Miss Lillian V. Hatch, co-defendant with Mr. and Mrs. Garrett, when she applied for work as a seamstress in 1925.

The witness testified Miss Hatch became a rooming girl on Saturdays, later coming in each day after costs were lost in the Hatcher trial. Roussel was called to the stand by Atty. General and called to the stand by the three defendants who are collectively charged.

To secure money from John F. Sullivan, proprietor of the Rita Hotel, Roussel is also charged with accepting gratuities and the two women with aiding and abetting a felony.

The government completed its case by introducing Garrett's testimony at the former trial, consisting of more than 30,000 words. With the conclusion of the cross-examination of William F. Turner, handwriting expert, Assistant District Attorney Doyle began to read a transcript of the testimony of the former police liquor raid.

In this testimony, given January 25, 1931, Garrett told of entering the police department in November of 1929, with an assignment to Charlestown. Later he said he was transferred to the East Dedham station, going to headquarters in 1932.

His BOSTON ADDRESS. The witness told of having various addresses in Dorchester, Allston, Newton and Cambridge. He testified he took a room in 1925 with Miss Hatch, because of a general order that all police officers should have Boston addresses. Garrett testified he had met Miss Hatch in 1919 or 1920 at the home of his family physician, Dr. Irving. He said he roomed at her home at 3 Blackwood st., on Huntington ave., and at 3 Pike st.

He told of being assigned to the liquor squad at headquarters, first on salary. Later, he testified, he was given charge of a squad, his duty being to investigate, anonymous complaints and serve search warrants. The witness denied ever going to the Hotel Rita with Mrs. Garrett or Miss Hatch or ever going there except on business. He said he went to the Rita with Mrs. Garrett without warrants, but never seized liquor without a warrant.

WHY HE WENT TO HINGHAM. Garrett said he went to Hingham because his wife wanted to go, and that she established a substantial bulk business there, with 12 barrels, four or five trucks and two or three teams.

He testified he never depleted more money than he made, and that he won some money betting on fights.

Among the witnesses called for the defense appear the names of Rupp, Michael H. Cronin, who was also a government witness. Others are William H. McNamee, reporter; Louis Eggle, secretary to the Boston licensing board; John Bousart, former steward of the Hotel Rita, and representatives from several firms which formerly employed Miss Lillian V. Hatch.

TRUE STORIES OF NEW ENGLAND BUSINESS SUCCESSES. No. 15

material. It advised certain changes in the employees' wages.

It took months of careful study to systematize the proposed reorganization. The management arranged a series of conferences with the workers. Executives explained the reasons for the proposed changes. In this way the cooperation and the confidence of the employees, so essential to the plan's success, were secured.

When the plan began to operate it cut the cost of production so much that the factory was able to turn out certain new products it could not afford to produce before. The plant operated on full time instead of part time. Machine stoppages practically ceased. Hourly earnings of skilled employees increased, and the quality of the factory's products improved.

When neighboring competitors attempted to imitate this company's reorganization, they failed. They did not take sufficient time to effect a thorough investigation nor did they take the trouble to educate their employees.

CONTRACTS ARE STRIPPED AND SEARCHED

John, III, March 19 (1931)—The strictest surveillance that accompanies martial law today kept in check the enraged convicts who yesterday mutinied in the "model" penitentiary in Stateville and burned seven new buildings at an estimated loss of $500,000.

Thirty alleged murderers of the penitentiary were placed in solitary confinement, while National Guardsmen, state and city police maintained order with a display of machine guns and fired beyond the walls. It was reported a rebellion was brewing in the women's prison, but tear gas bombs were rushed there. Men convicts had been fighting over the penitentiary walls to the women, it was charged.

The convicts, Raymond Barney, 23, a negro, was dead and two other prisoners suffered from bullet wounds as a result of the riot. Seven guards were being treated for bruises.

Determined that there will be no repetition of the rebellion, Warden Henry C. Hill asked some of the four companies of national guardsmen, under command of Brig-Gen. John J. Garrity, to make a systematic search of every cell and every prisoner within the walls of the new and the old penitentiary.

STRIPPED AND SEARCHED—Prisoners were stripped to the skin in the quest for weapons. The prison walls were minutely inspected.

A number of knives, some steel and some other contraband material were confiscated, according to Deputy Warden Erickson.

A report permitted that the real cause of the search was the rumored smuggling of dynamite into the Stateville prison and the consequent of arms in the Joliet situation.

SOME DAMAGE.—Meanwhile the penitentiary, one of the most modern in the country, was paralyzed. Seven of the new buildings were gutted by fire set off by the rioting convicts.

Damage from fire and vandalism was estimated by Col. F. W. Whipple, State superintendent of prisons, at $500,000.

The mess hall, a massive auditorium with a seating capacity of 2000, was a ruin. The mess hall was blackened by the fire. The mess hall was a ruin. The mess hall was a ruin.

TRAVELS 3000 MILES TO KILL

A Reporter's Story of a Famous Maine Murder Case

By BERT FORD

(Who Worked on the Case as a Reporter)

Benjamin H. Turner, who travelled 3000 miles from Mexico City to Portland, Me., to kill James D. Hallen, set up his own code of laws and ethics.

That was what got him into trouble. He was court, jury and lord high executioner all unto himself.

Turner was a conscientious objector when he came to the World War. He claimed that he had no moral right to enter the army.

Yes, Ben Turner calmly murdered two men when vengeance demanded, according to his home-made code.

DISABLED PLANE SENDS OUT SOS

New York, March 19 (AP)—An O 8 from an unidentified air plane which said it was disabled and lost somewhere between Hongkong and Manila was picked up this morning at the Rayville, L. I., station of the Mackay Radio Co.

The signals faded quickly and no more was heard from the craft.

Manila, March 19 (AP)—Glen Brophy, who left Macao, near Canton, at 8:30 a. m. today on the last leg of a projected flight from Shanghai to Manila, failed to arrive here as scheduled time today. His whereabouts was unreported here late tonight.

Brophy was expected to reach Nichols Field, the army airport just outside of Manila, about 2 p. m. Mr. Brophy waited for him here until 7 o'clock this evening and then returned to his hotel.

The army and navy started the search for Brophy. Three destroyers, Peary, Paul Jones and Truxton will leave for northern Luzon tonight.

Two big amphibious army planes were ordered to leave at dawn tomorrow.

The dispatch help problem is solved by taking a telephone apartment use, for land is severed after the first West moment.

Bryn Mawr Club to Present Big Jungle Film on Saturday

"AFRICA SPEAKS," ONE of the most revealing and astounding films yet made of jungle life in Africa, has been chosen by the Bryn Mawr Club of Boston to be shown Saturday morning at the Dexter Theater at 10:30 a. m. for the benefit of the regional scholarship fund. The committee in charge includes Mrs. Talbot Aldrich, Mrs. Ingersoll Bowditch, Mrs. Arthur H. Brooks, Mrs. Courtney Crocker, Mrs. Bronson Crothers, Mrs. Bradley Dewey, Mrs. Alfred F. Donovan, Mrs. Marshall Fabian, Mrs. Margaret F. Fitzgerald, Mrs. Henderson Innes, Mrs. Charles Jackson, Mrs. Charles G. Leving, and Mrs. Robert Walcott. This film depicts the daring explorations of Paul L. Huxford in the deepest jungles of the Congo. It shows even in the regions inhabited by the Wazara giants, fierce and most ferocious of all African tribes. There are also breathtaking scenes of man-eating lions. While entirely suitable for children, the film is extremely interesting to adults.

New York, March 18.—Gotham society is indulging in pleasant chit-chat over the engagement of Potter Palmer, 24, and Ross Sationalist Motwin, daughter of Mrs. A. L. West Motwin of Beacon st., Boston.

And over the tea cups it is being pointed out that the Boston "dabbies" and "pood-dabbies" are capturing all the socially entitled names in American society.

With Ross about to become Mrs. Potter Palmer 24, and "Betty" Sationalist planning to wed August Belmont in June, no one would be surprised if the still youthful John Jacob Astor eventually is captured by a pretty blonde from the city of culture and beans.

Pajamas Now in Algerian Colors

By ANN ARDEN

THE TIMID soul who's always had a secret yearn for strong vivid colors and nobly tamed it in favor of subdued shades, can now throw inhibitions to the wind and indulge a life-long passion for primary color in the raw, thanks to the French Colonial Exposition in Paris this spring. From Tunisia, Algeria and Morocco, those magic names of places you hope to see some day, have come the vibrant Algerian, yellow, reds and blues which French couturiers, true patriots, are using as accents with white or as touches of color on dark costumes.

PAJAMAS REEM peculiarly suited to these vivid tones, and the trig outfit pictured has many informal uses. The trousers of medium width are vivid red silk crepe, as is the sleeveless blouse. Its V-neck, and edge of trousers bound in blue silk, laced with red cord. The coat is blue, piped in red, large shallow pockets combine red and blue, accented by the red lacing. The nicest part of the new pajamas is the fact that they strike the right note for the uses to which they are put.

THE PAJAMA costume is a theme which nearly every Paris house played up in the openings. It practically sounds the clock in its various interpretations from dawn 'til after dark.

FORMAL EVENING pajamas are masterfully and ingeniously designed in chiffons, printed or plain crepe and lace. Their picturesque character gives ample chance for unique color contrasts. For dinner the same type but less elaborate, appears.

FOR GARDEN or home, simple crepe de chine are shown to take the place of the former house frock.

IF THERE has been any doubt as to whether the dining out of pajamas would have to be created to fit the trend, here it is! A slip made with legs just like a pajama that may be worn with ease under the sheerest pajamas. It is an innovation and one that

Prince Henri to Wed at Palermo

By ALICE LANGELIER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Paris, March 18.—A large number of Parisian royalty are preparing to leave for Palermo, chosen once more as the site of the marriage of one of the children of the pretender to the French throne.

There, two years ago, Princess Francisca de France, daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Guise, became the bride of Prince Christopher of Greece. Now, it is the turn of the only son of the duke, young Prince Henri, who was born in 1908 in the Alms Department, and like his father, has been obliged to live away from his native soil.

He is tall and slender, like all of the Orientals, with clear blue eyes and brown hair. Never sars of just what life had in store for him, he seriously went about the business of learning politics and economics and became a good student at the University of Brussels. This does not prevent him, however, from being very fond of sports and he wields a tennis racket as well as he drives his little sports runabout.

Prince Henri is marrying the girl who, though she even though she happened to be a pretty Princess and a distant cousin of his. She is Princess Isabelle d'Orleans Braganca and descends from King Philip's son, the Duke of Nemours. She is just 20 and very beautiful.

The wedding is to take place on the Wednesday after Easter.

BALCHOW PLANE FRISSEES

to flow over in search for any survivors, Cooper said.

A. G. Pined of New York, Friselle's companion, is also missing.

MORE FUEL NEEDED
All night efforts to have the plane ready for the start of the light this morning were frustrated when Balchen arrived and declared its fuel capacity insufficient.

A plane was dispatched to New York for three aviation auxiliary tanks to give the Sikorsky a 420-gallon capacity and these were expected to reach the airport about 7 p. m.

The starting hour was advanced to 2 a. m. when Balchen said he would need daylight to land at Halifax, N. S., for refueling and concentrated food. There are no night landing facilities there.

The Sikorsky will have about a nine-hour cruising radius at 100-mile cruising speed with the emergency tanks. In addition to medical supplies and concentrated foods, it will carry canned food, 24 cases of condensed heat, axes, knives, matches and guns, the latter for use in event of a forced landing on the ice.

While it is equipped with an antenna, the rescue plane will not carry a working radio and contact with ships will be made by dropping notes.

The arrival of a rescue ship at the island makes no difference in our plans, Cooper said. "We are going to search for survivors on the ice, especially for the two men for any others who have not reached the island or been picked up by the ship."

BASE AT ST. JOHN'S
St. John's, N. F., will be the base of the searching plane. Balchen expects to reach there and land in the harbor in the afternoon after noon tomorrow.

Two hours of disaster to the sailing ship is 100 miles from St. John's, about a two-hour flight, and Balchen was here about 10 hours in which to cruise over the ice floor.

A possible alternative to St. John's as base of operations is at St. Anthony, on the Newfoundland coast, north of Hopedale, Fair Harbor, but there are no adequate facilities for the Sikorsky type Balchen himself will decide when he arrives.

FAIR FACTORS
It had been intended to base at St. John's, N. F., but the point of several transatlantic flights, but deep snow on the air field and ice in the harbor were reported there.

Being the hazard of death themselves, the four members of the expedition may meet in emergency and storm—now turning to rain—over Newfoundland.

Such a storm was reported from St. John's, N. F., this morning, although it is not yet confirmed. It is expected that the rescue ship will be delayed.

There is no place on Hopedale where a plane could land, according to advice received by the fliers from St. John's, and none in the harbor where emergency landing will be attempted.

Balchen, Cooper and Enslow reached Boston by train.

The blonde navigator who flew with Byrd to the South Pole and over the Atlantic and placed the relief expedition for the Bremen from at Greenland Island, N. F., in the general vicinity of his present operation was on business in London when word reached him that he was needed in another emergency.

MORE TANKS NEEDED
Minus his overcoat, as usual, Balchen rushed to New York and boarded the train that was bringing Cooper and Gates to Boston and an route they made here plans. They went at once to Boston airport to inspect the latest Sikorsky which, through the night, had food and fuel, and the national hangars being serviced by an emergency ice crew and mechanics who made a special flight from New York.

"It will not be unless we get more tanks," said Balchen, after he had looked over the ship.

COAST GUARDS REACH

COAST GUARDS REACH

St. John's, N. F., March 19 (AP)—Food, medical supplies and a doctor reached the survivors of the "Viking" on Hopedale, when their ship, the coast guard, arrived.

Doctor Forney and members of the crew of the sealer Imogene made their way to the island over close packed and hummocky ice. They began immediately to take survivors aboard the Imogene to be fed and sent on to the sealer Sagona nearby.

The Sagona was to bring them to St. John's for hospital care. The ship was the Viking have been on the island since Sunday when their ship was blown up.

The pilot, Edward A. Dow sent a plea to Washington for an American ice-cutter and was prepared to radio full instructions on how the ice field surrounding the island might be navigated.

George Whitley, a veteran sealing captain, refused to accept a rescue-airplane because he was unable to land at the island. He said there is a clear space on the south side of the island which would assure a safe landing.

Six men were already aboard the Sagona, having been picked up after many hours of exposure on ice and wreckage.

W. J. Kennedy, one of the six, has contracted pneumonia; Wireless Operator C. King has frozen feet now attacked by gangrene; and Harry Sargent, a Canadian explorer, is suffering an eye affliction.

BALCHOW A HERO OF ARCTIC HOPS
The Viking relief expedition will be just another flight for Bert Balchen.

In 1925, out of Spitzbergen, he flew across the Arctic wastes in search of the missing expedition headed by Roald Amundsen.

Wired Admiral Byrd brought him to the United States. He, of Byrd's transatlantic flight which ended in a forced landing, with Ellen French sea-coast town.

"My job is the least of my worries," he said. "Winning re-election would be easy for me."

Senator Moses said the least of his troubles was winning another term as Senator.

Three companions on the epic flight are expected to address the radio audience before the start.

All other programs scheduled for WNAAC, the Yankee network stations and the Columbia chain will be cancelled at midnight to direct the air for the unusual broadcast.

Listeners, however, must arrange for WNAAC, will be in charge of arrangements at the airport.

PAVING INSPECTORS STUDY
If the young men now serving as temporary inspectors in the paving service of the city public works department, succeed in passing the coming civil service examination, they will have good fortune to Charles H. Nelson, junior engineer in that division.

Charles conducts classes for them two evenings a week in room 501 in City Hall annex. He charges no fee for his services and will be fed and sent on to the sealer Sagona nearby.

TOM BROWN'S RECORD
Tom Brown, the genial police officer on duty at the city treasurer's office has been a member of the police force since July 6, 1888, and during that lengthy period has had only nine days of sickness. City officials consider this a remarkable record.

MISS SCHIEB ON VACATION
Miss Josephine Schieb, head bookkeeper of the City of Boston Employees Credit Union, has just left City Hall to enjoy a long delayed vacation. Because of the pressure of her office, she has been absent from her office since last summer. Miss Schieb was compelled to abandon plans for a rest of last fall.

CARMODY A FIGHT MAN
James J. Carmody, machine mechanic at the Albany st. yards of the Boston & Albany R.R. Co., has been a member of the Massachusetts National Guard since 1908. He is among his friends nearly all of the local men who have reached success and fame in the prize ring.

FOPIANO DECLINES
John M. Fopianno, office manager for Standish Wilcox, Mayor Curley's social secretary, is being urged to run for candidate for the city council from South Boston next year. "Charlie" says he appreciates the kindly interest of his friends, but he cannot accept their suggestion.

PRIZE BRIDGE PLAYER
Miss Mary Boyle of the city has won the prize for bridge playing in the city tournament.

Mr. Stenhouse graduated from Boston College last June and is now studying for his law through Boston College Law School.

SOLONS CRACK 'NUTS'
Legislative hearings have a tendency to attract "nuts" in the sense of seriously-minded persons who are experts on the subjects under discussion. At least half a dozen men and women may be heard daily before various committees who may be classed as plain "windbags."

Knowing the fallings of these "nuts," members of the committees have to engage each other in conversation until the "orators" are done.

LAND AND WATER TRAVEL RESORT NEWS

HUGE LOAN FOR EASTERN S. S.

The United States, in accordance with an agreement made between the shipping board and the Eastern Steamship Line, Inc., is to loan the Eastern corporation three-quarters of the cost of two big liners which have been ordered by the Newport News Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co.

The ships, which are to cost about $7,000,000, are to run between New York and Yarmouth, N. S., and Boston and St. John, N. B., and will be in service in May and June of 1932.

The Eastern Steamship Line, Inc., has 50 years in which to pay back the loan.

The Eastern Lines have been given contracts for 10 years by the U. S. Postoffice Department to carry the mails between New York and Yarmouth and Boston and St. John. The corporation for some time has had the contract to carry the mails between Boston and Yarmouth.

Capt. Eugene E. O'Donnell, president of the Eastern Lines, has received numerous letters from persons all over the country commending the Eastern Lines for its decision to construct new ships.

"We have all been more or less afraid of the threatening clouds of the depression has kept hovering about us," said Capt. O'Donnell, "but they seem to be drifting away. The business horizon promises clear weather and there does not seem any justification for business remaining at anchor any longer."

"We of the Eastern Lines have faith in the United States and Canada and that is why we are going to spend $7,000,000 in building two ships that will travel on the Atlantic coast."

"These millions will put many of our unemployed to work when the ships are completed for several hundred men. The owners and stewards will be paid the payrolls of the Eastern lines."

"BUDDY" LIKES THEM ALL

Los Angeles, March 19 (UPI)—"What was the most interesting thing you saw in Europe?" Louella Parsons asked Charles "Buddy" Rogers, in their radio interview last night.

"The sight Buddy Rogers and actress Ruth Chatterton making eight foreign versions in a Paris motion picture studio was the most interesting, and meeting Prince George, son of the English king, was the most thrilling," Buddy replied.

"What about the girls?" Miss Parsons asked. "Didn't you fall in love with any of the far-famed European beauties?"

"I didn't see one woman in Europe," Buddy answered, gallantly, "who compared with our American girls."

Miss Parsons, who is motion picture editor of Universal Service and the Hearst newspaper, asked Buddy why he didn't get married if he liked our American girls so much.

"I'm always seeing you dancing with Anita Page, Mary Brian, June Collyer or Frances Dee. Which one is it?" he asked.

"I like them all," he frank. Buddy replied. "They're all beautiful and all great girls, but I've never been able to persuade any one of them to have me."

This interview was the sixth of a series of radio broadcasts conducted with world-famous stars on the musical cocktail hour over the Columbia Broadcasting System in a tie-up that reaches all over the United States.

Next week Miss Parsons will interview Norma Shearer, the popular Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star.

Youth, 18, Accused as Bandit-Slayer

New York, March 19.—A youth of 18, who, police claim, said he turned highwayman as he would have money to spend on girls, was held in two shootings, one of which ended fatally.

Police said Rosario Bruno, of Thompsonville, Ct., admitted he and two companions killed Nick Legala at Warehouse Point, Ct., on February 28, and a few weeks later seriously wounded Harry Weller at Trenton, N. J. The two kidnappers netted $54.

WOMAN CLAIMS TO HAVE HARP OF TOM MOORE

New York, March 19 (AP)—Mrs. John Robert Miller of 1418 Jessup Ave., Bronx, former concert and church singer, expressed surprise today on reading in New York newspapers that the harp of the famous Irish poet, Thomas Moore, had been found in an obscure corner of the museum of Drexel Institute, Philadelphia.

"I own the original Tom Moore harp and have had it in my possession for 30 years," she said.

The instrument is painted plain green, is three feet high and weighs about 10 pounds. Its compass comprises 30 notes, which are tuned diatonically in the key of G. On one side is a silver plate, inscribed, "Tom Moore's Harp. Presented to Prof. Glover."

The harp came to Mrs. Miller in 1900 on the death in Dublin of her grandfather, Prof. J. W. Glover, composer, who edited an edition of "Moore's Melodies." Moore gave the harp in 1810 to the publishers, who presented it to Glover. Moore had used it in London.

Mrs. Miller has a clipping from the Dublin Herald on April 15, 1854, telling of a lecture on the history of the harp which was displayed "Moore's harp lent by Prof. Glover." She has a letter from her friend, the late Adeline Patti, congratulating her in acquiring "the famous harp belonging to Tom Moore."

Harvard Man to Plan World's Fair Exhibit

New York, March 19 (AP)—Election of Dr. Robert S. Woodward, professor of psychology at Columbia University, as president of the Social Science Research Council was announced today. He succeeds Dr. Edwin S. Wilson, professor of vital statistics, Harvard University, who has been appointed head of a committee to plan social science exhibits for Chicago's 1933 world fair.

Other officers are Prof. Arthur M. Schlesinger of Harvard, chairman; Prof. William F. Floyd, University of Chicago, vice-chairman; Prof. Henry M. Bates, University of Michigan, secretary; Prof. Wesley C. Mitchell of Columbia, treasurer.

MUSIC FOR GRADUATES

New York, March 19 (AP)—The members of the Martha Lee cooking school, conducted by the Boston Evening American, at the mid-season graduation exercises held yesterday and Tuesday in the Boston Evening American building in Winthrop.

At the exercises a program of entertainment was furnished by a group from this week's class at the Scollay Square Olympia.

Those who received diplomas have completed a 10-week, secure course by Miss Lee, lectures held once every week. Their graduation from the cooking school entitles them to receive credit at the Vocational Extension course at the State House. Approximately 37,500 members of the school receive instruction by mail.

Before the entertainment pictures explaining the manufacturing process of ice cream were shown by H. P. Hood & Sons, and an invitation extended to those present to visit the plant.

Those taking part in the entertainment program were Ellen and Bill Rogers, a dance team; The Tiffany Boys, Charlie Heffernan, Lew Bellin and Ed Gallagher, and the Public Playboys, Stanley Schultz and George Gould. (Staff photo.)

Weber and Fields Stage Thrilling Dunking Duel

New York, March 19 (AP)—For many years' employees and executives of the Hotel Astor will remember what took place there yesterday.

Joe Weber and Lew Fields held a dunking duel. The contest, let it be said, was a sporting affair.

The rules of no dunking below the first knuckle were strictly observed by both contestants. The wagers were two pieces of corn bread and two bowls of consommé that the duellists tried to palm off as possible.

Billy Stephens refereed the bout and, after three tablecloths and 40 napkins were soiled, ruled the duel a tie. He explained:

"Water had better form, but Fields was faster. Hygienically both were all wet."

ANCIENT EARL IS EXHUMED

Arundel, Sussex, Eng., March 19 (AP)—After 138 years the remains of the first Earl of Arundel, who died in 1595, have been exhumed from the vault of ancient Arundel Castle.

Pope Pius XI requested the exhumation for purposes of identification with plans to beautify the vault.

The body was identified from a copper plate on the coffin and parchments inside as that of Philip Howard, first earl of Arundel.

The present Duke of Norfolk witnessed the opening of the vault. He is sending all records in his possession to the Pope.

Philip Howard's wife embraced Catholics in 1585, leading the agents of Queen Elizabeth to suspect him in the Throckmorton plot.

Official said the sterner, sharper here last Saturday for Norwegian ports, is in no danger.

BAR LEADER IS SUED BY WIFE

Worcester, March 19.—A marital rift between George A. Bourgeois, railroad attorney and bar leader of New Jersey, and his wife, Mrs. Muriel Bourgeois, mistress of a Northboro estate, was revealed in probate court today with a petition of Mrs. Bourgeois for separate support.

Bourgeois is a counsel for the Pennsylvania railroad and former president of the New Jersey Bar Association. He lives at Atlantic City.

Mrs. Bourgeois charges threats and failure to support her or provide for five servants on the Northboro estate. She named February 20 as the last date she received any funds from her husband.

The first skirmish on the petition is scheduled for Saturday, when a hearing will be given counsel for Bourgeois on the husband's charge that the Massachusetts courts lack jurisdiction.

In his answer, Bourgeois charged they had never lived together in Massachusetts. He also charged the service of papers on the suit were irregular—served before the action was filed.

In a separate petition Mrs. Bourgeois asks temporary support, pending the outcome of the main action.

498 KILLINGS IN N. Y. C. IN YEAR

New York, March 19 (AP)—Chief Medical Examiner Charles Morris reports that 498 persons suffered violent death in New York City in 1930, an increase of 23 over the previous year.

Among these were 498 cases of homicide, an increase of 66; 147 of highway accidents, 147 of suicides, 248 of burns, 193 of accidental poisoning, 492 of accidental drowning, 699 of alcoholism, 448 of accidental asphyxiation.

Sixteen husbands killed their wives, and six wives killed their husbands. Nine persons died under horse-drawn vehicles and two from driving their cars into the ocean. Three were frozen to death and 19 succumbed to the heat. Thirty-seven fell out of bed to their death. Three were killed by revolving doors. One was killed while walking through a subway turnstile. One man died of crab bite.

CENTRAL FALLS CHIEF IS OUT

Central Falls, R. I., March 19 (AP)—After many turbulent years as chief of police here, James McCarthy stepped into enforced retirement today—at full pay.

McCarthy joined the force here in 1908 and became chief in 1909, but during the latter 15 years of his regime he has been the center of political fight. Successive mayors have preferred charges against him of which he was acquitted.

Two years ago a Republican bloc preferred graft charges and Mayor Adetards St. George removed McCarthy, but no hearing was held and finally after several weeks McCarthy just walked back into his office and has since held the place. His retirement now has been forced by the passage through the Legislature of a measure establishing a police commission for the city, appointed by the Governor. The City Council voted his retirement at full pay.

ROSEMARY WAYE

Waye Makes Himself at Home and Spreads Idea of Being Mildly Insane

"Rosemary" Waye whispered in obvious amazement.

What Has Gone Before

SYNOPSIS: The shadow of his criminal life in America falls on Dr. Charters when a stranger invades his English nursing home and demands that the doctor give him asylum and an alibi on a possible murder charge. The alternative threatened is the revelation of Charters' criminal past, a checkered career of kidnapping and major thefts. When his mysterious caller tells him that his "Spider Schmitt" has got him, the doctor's memory goes back to his flight from America with Spider's and Chick Dorson's shares of the St. Clair diamond haul, engineered together. Out of the evil past also has come Maud, his "evil genius," now married to Mr. Lauderdale, whose pretty niece, not yet 21, is strangely ill in the nursing home, complaining that the medicine she takes makes her condition worse. At first denying he knows any of the underworld characters his victim names, Charters finally drops his bluff, while protesting the intrusion.

CHAPTER 3

Mysterious Waye

"THE LAW doesn't allow me to have any mad person here," replied Dr. Charters, tonelessly, and with expressionless face.

"No? Well, all that's your trouble, Simmy, not mine. You must have me here under observation, then, but mind I don't get mad with you, Simon."

crossed to where the great brown temple-bell boom beneath the bow of the riddled clock tower down on one knee and applying his hand to his ear he achieved the noise of The Lieutenant. The butler ceased from his labors and with lowered arm and jaw, regarded Mr. Waye.

"Dinna ye hear it?" asked the latter.

The butler swallowed and pulled himself together.

Find Lodging

"Ar, Sir," he said, "I thought I heard something 'at' you."

"What is it, name?"

"What is it, name?"

"Thank you. Will you do something for me?"

"Certainly, Sir."

"Let me know directly you find lodging. I want to ask to him."

"Lodging?" William Board murmured. "I can tell you where you'll find lodging, before long Colney 'Alch Lomato' place."

Entering the beautifully proportioned dining room, once the money refectory, John Waye was kindly welcomed by the maids, a buxom, kindly woman, beloved of all the patients, staff and servants.

"Come along then, Mr. Waye," she cried, as he entered, and some 300 feet of eyes regarded him with interest. "I've tried you a good deal, come, meet."

"Come along, darling," she added as Marjorie Lauderdale came in. "Come and sit by me. This is Mr. Waye. It is the first time he has been able to get up."

John Waye stared at the girl in obvious amazement.

"Rosemary," he whispered.

And then he bowed gravely and said:

"Good evening."

"I think Dr. Charters said you'd been here a week," continued the maid brightly, turning to John Waye.

"Yes, it must be about a week," he agreed.

Marjorie Lauderdale regarded the newcomer with interest.

"That's a nice girl," she said. "Good evening." And why was his lie out-aside his waistcoat, and his hair, the first time he had seen her, she said something to him. Continued on Page 24, Column 5.

Left Trail

"If you've done something about the last and that will bring Scotland Yard here after you, it would be perfectly impossible for me to pretend you've been here a week, even if I did to do so," he said Dr. Charters.

"Your trouble, Simmy, as I said before, I should worry!" interrupted the madman. "And if they pinch me, in spite of your utmost efforts—unless you can prove that I don't know a thing about what I'm doing, you're for it."

"All very interesting indeed," murmured the doctor, eyeing the stranger coldly.

"I gather that you wish to enter this Nursing-Home as a mental patient; that you wish it to be supposed that you've already been here for a long time; that you wish to be kept under observation; that you wish to be treated for mental trouble and, more particularly, that you wish to be treated for mental trouble and, if possible, cured."

"Yes, I wish to do all that," replied the visitor.

"Well, supposing I start, you insist that my name is Jim, Simmy or Simon."

"What is your real name, doctor?"

"Re—I am Dr. Theodore Charters, M.D., of London University, which you may see by reference to the Medical Register. What, by the way, are you?"

"John Waye"

"He? Oh, I'm—Mr. John Waye."

"I don't remember the name," said Dr. Theodore Charters. "You don't remember the name, I'm sure. But you're going to—You're going to remember it as long as you live—and a bit longer perhaps."

Mr. John Waye was taken to a vacant room, and, having retired to bed, fell into a deep sleep.

Concerning him, Dr. Charters held long and anxious conversations with Mr. James, Dr. Macdonald, the matron of the nursing home, and Nurse Jones.

"Mr. John Waye," emerging from his room, proceeded in the direction of the great hall whence the accident of the gun had justly banished the butler.

Descending the staircase that led from the gallery, John Waye

BOY TRAGEDY SUSPECTED IN MURDER

One of Boys Admits Complicity in Crime, Somerville Police Say

Walter Souza, 19, of Somerville was arrested today as the third member of a bandit trio that shot down Evangelista Louis Bagli in the Ten Hills filling station in Somerville February 24.

Souza's arrest came after police killed John D. Wall and John J. Oliver, 19, both of Somerville, arrested yesterday after a gun slugging to have been used in the shooting was traced to them.

Wall and Oliver will be arraigned in Superior Court, East Cambridge late today, charged with the murder of Bagli, who died 24 hours after the bandits had wounded him and killed his police man.

According to Chief Thomas W. Oliver of Somerville, Oliver admitted complicity in the crime, and named Souza as the man who went with him into the station, while Wall remained at the wheel of the stolen car in which they fled the scene.

Capit. Charles P. Van Amburgh, state firearms expert, identified the gun traced to Oliver and Wall as the weapon which killed Bagli.

Two months ago Wall was arrested in connection with the theft of an automobile and was placed on probation. Oliver was arrested on the same charge and committed to the Shirley school, from which he was released recently on parole.

CLIQUE DINGING WESTON CRASH

A Dorchester man and a Brookline woman suffered injuries that may cause death today in an early morning automobile crash in Boston Post rd. Weston shortly after leaving a machine for Boston.

Their machine crashed into a stone wall.

Nathaniel P. Williamson, 30, of Columbia rd., Dorchester, suffered a fractured skull. He was driving the machine, according to police.

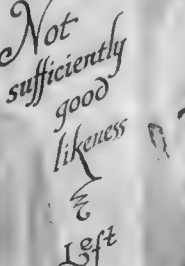

Miss Evelyn E. Woolston, of Naples rd., Brookline, his companion, received a possible fracture of the back and lacerations of both legs. Both were buried from the machine.

They were taken to Waltham Hospital.

At the home of Miss Woolston it was stated that she was at the inn with a party of friends and met Williamson there for the first time when he offered to drive her home. Williamson's wife maintained a vigil in the hospital after she was notified.

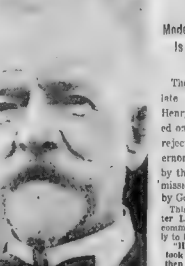

Only recently Miss Woolston returned from a health trip in the New Hampshire mountains. She was a member of the Appalachian Club, according to a neighbor.

MURCHIE WEDS DIVORCEE

Guy Murchie, former Harvard white and Boston lawyer, and Mrs. Ethel A. Ross, named in a divorce suit filed in Boston recently by Mrs. Murchie, were quietly married Tuesday afternoon in Reno, it was learned today.

Murchie had secured a divorce from his former wife in Reno, Feb. 20 on grounds of cruelty. Mrs. Murchie filed suit in Boston a short time after her husband received his Reno divorce. The case is still pending in Suffolk Probate Court.

The new Mrs. Murchie is the divorced wife of Commandant J. K. Ross of Montreal, well known Canadian sportsman. She had a million dollar trust fund from Commandant Ross and owns a cottage at Nassau in the West Indies.

20 GRILLED IN FIRE

Lynn officials and State fire authorities today are pushing their probe into the blaze which swept the Lenox Hotel there last night, yesterday, snuffing out three lives and taking a large toll of injuries.

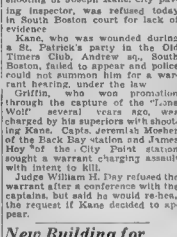

Saturday the fire officials will conduct an inquiry as the Broad st., Lynn, firehouse. The results of the investigation's questionnaire will be presented at that time for an official finding. In addition to the fire inquiry, a coroner's inquest will be held within two weeks in the Lynn court by request of Coroner Louis Bartlett.

According to the man working under the three department heads the fire started in the kitchen. There has been no indication as to whether the fire was caused by a gas leak or by a faulty stove. Every effort will be made to get every salient of escape from the building.

Investigators admitted that only for the many firemen and the quick responses of firemen the death toll would have been much greater.

Only three persons of the many injured are being held at Lynn Hospital today. They are Edward Murphy, Eugene McKenna, and Mrs. Lottie Clifford.

MALAGA, AT WHITE SLAVE TRIAL, TELLS OF 'THIRD DEGREE'

GRILLED HOURS BY DOYLE, HE DECLARES

Defendant Relates How He Was Questioned About Reinstein Murder

A vivid 'description' of a 'third degree' in connection with the murder of Reinstein was given in federal court today by Harry Malaga, testifying in his defense at the second day of his trial on white slavery charges.

Malaga was indicted two months after the murder of Reinstein in Hotel Huntington in September, 1929, as a result of the vice probe that followed the murder.

He denied that he transported Reinstein, now his wife, in violation of the Mann white slave act, and accounted for his presence in Boston brought his testimony to Boston after a talk with Police Inspector Timothy Donovan at Boston, Pa., the following day.

"I went to Dist. Atty. Foley's office but saw his assistant, Frederick T. Doyle," Doyle closed the door of the room when I entered, took off his coat, rolled up his sleeves and asked me to follow him to the back room, where he was again questioned. The next day he was taken to headquarters, where he was asked about Reinstein, home of ill repute and street numbers. A marriage license of Malaga's and the Mann act, whom he is accused of transporting, was presented the jury by his counsel.

Malaga denied that he assigned her to any business of ill fame or ever received any illicit money through her.

Inspector James Egan, of the Boston police, one of those Malaga said was in Dist. Atty. Foley's office, told the court that he saw no "rough treatment" of Malaga. Under cross-examination by Asst. U. S. Atty. Herbert Thompson, Malaga vehemently denied all the charges of violation of the Mann act.

Atty. Lewis and Asst. U. S. Atty. John W. Schenck started examining him in the afternoon and one was expected to reach the jury late today.

Value of Advertising Stressed at Lecture
The value of newspaper advertising in all lines of business was stressed by more than 200 Boston advertising men, members of the Cressbrook Paphos Post, American edition, at the noon dinner in the Hotel Bradford, today.

The members were observing Newspaper Advertising Day, which was the last of a series of advertising talks held by the organization.

George S. Beale, advertising director for Five Star Publications, stressed the importance of national reputation and been developed by newspaper advertising.

Gordon Chief, of five Curtis Martin newspapers, and Franklin R. Call also spoke.

FOUR FINED IN LIQUOR CASES

Pleading guilty to indictment charging them with violating the customs tariff act, four men caught in a motorboat in the waters off Nahant in which were 133 cases of liquor, were fined and sentenced in federal court today.

The men are John Howell and Joshua Morash, both of Gloucester; Harry Garrett and Ralph Delat, both of Washington ave., Chelsea. The boat in which they were caught was forfeited to the Government.

The men were each fined $500 and sentenced to six months in the Worcester jail. The others were each fined $200 and given six months each in the House of Correction at Worcester. The prison sentence in each case was suspended.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Herbert Thompson told the court it was their first offense and urged leniency on that account.

Arrested, Fined, on Way to Jail in Hour
The battle of the law ground swiftly today for Louis Perry, Commercial ave., North End. Arrested at 11:45 on a charge of selling liquor, at 12:45 he was on his way to Deer Island to serve a six months' sentence. Besides the jail term, Judge John Duff in Municipal Court fined him $200.

Perry was arrested by Sgt. Robert J. Monney after it is alleged, he sold a pint of liquor to a woman.

Police Commissioner Bulfinch and Sup. Crowley will be among the invited guests tonight at the first annual banquet of the officers of the Essex County police station.

CARUSO WIDOW SUE FOR RING

Pittsburgh, March 18 (AP)—An attorney for Mrs. Dorothy Russell Caruso today said a replevin action had been started in New York to recover from Mrs. Caruso, widow of the famous tenor, a grand piano and a $12,000 diamond ring which Mrs. Caruso says once belonged to her mother, Lillian Russell, since 1914.

The action has no connection with Mrs. Caruso's suit here to break the will of the late ambassador to Spain, the attorney said.

MY BOB'S AT THE AGE WHEN HE CRAWLS ABOVE THE FLOOR. THIS HAMPER IS JUST FULL OF HIS GRAY CLOTHES. WASHDAY IS NO JOKE TO ME

IT'S SCRUB, SCRUB, SCRUB ON MONDAY UNTIL I'M ALL WORN OUT!

WHY DON'T YOU CHANGE TO RINSO? YOU WON'T EVER NEED TO SCRUB AGAIN

THE makers of 40 washers say "Rinso for safety!"
They know, of course. They know that Rinso washes clothes whiter—faster. That's why the makers of 40 washers endorse Rinso!

Cup for cup, Rinso gives twice as much suds as light, puffed-up soaps. Great for suds as light, puffed-up soaps. Great for clothes come whiter than ever this way. I use Rinso for dishes, too!

FLOWER NAMED AFTER SOCIETY BEAUTY

Former City Councilman James A. Watson, who yesterday charged that Chairman Joseph J. Hurley of the school committee was engaged for a bookbinder who was awarded a $10,000 contract by the committee, today was advised to go to the district attorney with his information by Frank A. Goodwin, chairman of the Finance Commission.

"There is nothing for us to investigate," said Chairman Goodwin, "if Watson thinks he has such information, he can see the district attorney. He should hurry, if he wants to clear himself of Watson's charge."

The charge was made before the Finance Commission at a hearing on legislation designed to abolish the board of superintendents of the Boston school system.

In a letter addressed last night to the commission, Hurley denied that he represented the bookbinder, who, Watson said, is Frank Brown of Chardon st.

'ROBBERS' LOVE NEST FOUND

Seeking two missing girls, Chief of Police today discovered an apartment on Ward st., Lynn, with objects in it allegedly linking the occupants with the robbery of the Charles Olympic Theater, Sunday night.

They arrested Michael O'Keefe, 27, of Lynn, who was charged with the robbery of the Charles Olympic Theater, Sunday night. The apartment, police believe, was used as a place of entertainment, and by a song whose method would be to lure them from home with the latest expenditures made possible by robberies.

Do you think of them?

Ans.—from investment viewpoint the best stocks our list are American Telephone & Telegraph, American Tobacco, Public Service of New Jersey and Reynolds. Though they pay dividends, Allis-Chalmers, Great Gas and Electric "A," Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler International Telephone & Telegraph, Westinghouse etc., Pennsylvania Railroad, Stewart Warner and Standard Brands are speculative. Last year's earnings were ad-affected by the unsettled business conditions throughout the country. No estimate can be made yet of the volume of business for current year. Curtiss-Wright, Remington-Rand, paying nothing, are speculations. The criticism we might make is that you have put too much money into common stocks.

FLOTSAM AND JETSAM OF SPORTS NEWS

IF THE good woman attempted to feed Pat corned beef and cabbage seven days a week Pat certainly would get tired of Red Mike and Violeta. Likewise Reginald Montgomery suffers from ennui when he sees the same old pate d'ouf grass and canape de caviar on the gold embossed menu the butler hands him. Variety is the spice of life.

Which touches on and appertains to the fact that the only kick we hockey fans had with the hockey fests C. F. Adams and Art Ross spread for us in the Boston Garden this winter was they handed us too much of a good thing. We would have liked a little variety—any one fancy skating in between the periods once in a while by Gladys Lamb and Norma Maple.

THERE is nothing more beautiful and artistic than fancy skating. Waiting on the ice is the poetry of motion. A skilled skater like Maribel Vinson can get more consummate grace into a wait on flashing steel blades than Pavlova could in any of her immitable dances. Gliding, leaping, prouetting about the ice in her fur and furbelows, Maribel seems a Norse fairy or an Arctic spirit dancing, weaving in rhythm and union with the Northern Lights, waving their fluttering ribbons across Alaskan skies.

We could watch Maribel Vinson and her brother and sister skaters and ladies of the steel blades all night. We wouldn't miss the annual American Amateur Figure Skating Championships, which take place in the Arena, tomorrow and Saturday nights for the proverbial far.

DID YOU EVER realize what an ancient sport skating is? Not so long ago workmen excavating near Flinbury Circus, London, England, dug up some bone skates which scientists said were used about the year 1000 or even earlier. Irving Brinkman, an authority on skating, says that in the famous diary of Evelyn, written in 1662, there occurs frequent mention of skaters, while Pepys, in the same year, describes the fantastic costumes of the skaters and "the very short petticoats of the Princess of Orange" as she "did slide upon her skates, first on one foot and then on the other."

One famous young lady, way back in 1396, once slid first on one foot, then on the other and then she fa' down and went boomp. She got such a hump that she decided to henceforth forgo all worldly things and devote the rest of her life to religious exercises. "She became St. Lieud." Considering what happened, she might well be called the patron saint of skating.

Napoleon Bonaparte once was almost drowned while skating. When a student of the Ecole Militaire he narrowly escaped drowning when skating on the moat of the fort at Auxerre.

A bibliophile tells us that the first book on skating was published in Latin in England in 1814, and that in 1818 the book "Frostiana" was published on the frozen Thames. In that book the skaters were recommended to carry a bag of shot in Napoleon pockets to help them maintain correct balance.

THEY were skating in England, Holland and Norse countries before America was discovered. But it took Jackson Haines, an American, to electrify Europe with his figure skating. Haines went abroad in 1862 and died there in 1913, in Gambia-Kariyeh, Finland. His monument, on which the native inscribed "The American Skating King," still is there. In 1868 a New York minister who was a good skater was denounced by a minister of another church as "infidel" for skating. "Infidel?" An offending person, who was somewhat of a wit, and he had "not taken from grace but from lack of it."

Do you know what they are going to put on in the Boston Garden soon? Bike racing. Manager Dick Dunn professes to know nothing about it. But we note that the Boston Garden has been leased to John Chapman, the Bike Car, for bike racing during the summer months. Nat Butler has been in close confab with Dunn and Boston Garden officials. Nat is Chapman's New England representative. Pretty soon word will see the official announcement that Nat is going to stage bike races in the Boston Garden.

When old Bill Ober, 60 years young, piloted Justin Shirk home in the first race at Jacksonville last Monday he won a bet of 20 years' standing.

Back in 1911 Ober bet Joe Byrne, another jockey, that he would be riding winners 20 years from then. The wager was a suit and overcoat. The years went by. Byrne forgot all about the bet. Ober didn't. The first thing Ober did when he got into street apparel after winning the race last Monday was to telegraph Byrne to "come across with that suit and overcoat."

It took not until the next day when Byrne picked up the paper and saw that Ober had ridden a winner that he remembered his wager with Bill. Ober has been sowing off and on for 30 years. He piloted his first mount home in 1907. If he keeps it up he may become a Bando.

EVER hear how Nick Altrock started his clowning? It was back in 1913. In a game between Washington and Cleveland Vince Gregg was on the mound for the Indians and Altrock's coaching back of third was "bana. Nick suddenly broke out into some furious shadow boxing. Gregg was seized with a paroxysm of laughter. He lost control and was knocked out of the box. The funniest part of it was Cleveland protested the game in the grounds Altrock's "disturbing performance was illegal." The dispute was put up to Ben Johnson. Ben reserved decision until Nick personally appeared before him and did his stuff. Ben told Nick to give the fans some more of it. He should have fined Cleveland for lack of sense of humor.

The A. A. U. is getting dumber and dumber. Winter season is almost over and not a single race has been staged for the run runners. Ford Frick says Red Lucas, Cincinnati pitcher, walked 12 miles to pitch his first game and got his control pitching rocks at crows stealing corn from his father's Tennessee cornfield. "He said he was almost as flying from Red Lucas." Diana Fishwick, the British woman's golf champion, didn't win a single match here. She now can sympathize with Phil Scott. But there's humor in the loss. She promises not to go back to Sothe and open a barber shop.

ADD little drama of sport. Old Charlie Comiskey, White Sox owner, trying to conquer his pride and go to the bedside of the dying Ben Johnson. "Years ago Johnson suspected some of Comiskey's players when the Old man needed them the most. It all was business with Ben. Sending Comiskey a string of fish he just caught on a fishing trip was friendship." But Comiskey sent them back with the terse command he couldn't play fish in the mudflat. What little insignificant things sometimes snap the strands of friendship.

REPUTATION OF ICE GAME AT STAKE

By BILL GRIMES

The eyes of the sports world will be turned on Boston, Chicago, New York, Montreal and Toronto during the coming National Hockey League championship playoffs and those cities will be judged by the actions of their teams and their public.

Hockey is ballpoo, and rightly so, as the fastest game. There is considerable bodily contact during a match. There is a certain element of danger and accidents are liable to crop up at any time. During a world championship series, the players are under a severe nervous strain and are keyed up to almost the breaking point. There is an explanation for contestants losing their heads and bringing criticism upon the name of the cities they represent.

But there is no rhyme or reason for fans becoming so incensed over a hockey game, even though the outcome will determine the world's championship, as to warrant such actions as occur nightly.

For years Boston enjoyed a reputation as the fairest city towards visiting contestants and, although the RUK of the U.S. has not been as bad as we'll say for comparison, Chicago and Toronto, now far from the unbiased city of a decade ago.

Actions of Hockey Fans Confusing

To the newly initiated hockey fan, who is accustomed to sitting in with the baseball crowds, the actions of the local sympathizers are, at the least, confusing. The old baseball fan never hesitated to second to go visiting players their just dues, expiating any unusual feat by enthusiastically shouting performed by a member of his own club. Cribb than on rare occasions, when an enemy goal (under was having an exceptional brilliant night, such condition never exists in hockey).

Such truly great players and equally great sportsmen as Howie Johnson of the Rangers, Billy Smith of the Americans, Clint Johnson of the Maroons, King Clancy of Toronto and Happy Day of Toronto, are always bound by the fans.

The type of "fan" who from a safe point of vantage insults players as they run off the ice, has no place in sport.

Boston fans have been guilty on numerous occasions of throwing missiles at players and officials, usually with few exceptions they have confined themselves to throwing grapes and pineapples. That no injuries have occurred in Chicago they have, in their estimation, a playful habit of throwing various species of fruit at visiting players and officials. In Chicago it is necessary to have a very keen sense of humor to smile after getting pipped with a grapefruit or a lemon from a first or second balcony. As soon as a hawk is sent to the penalty box, an avalanche of urine and pineapples, and is hurled in the general direction of the officials.

Toronto Fans Throw Knives at Referee

During a game in Toronto this season, two knives with open blades measuring about five inches were thrown at Bert Corbain, who patrolled them up and dispatched them to Press, Frank Calder.

And the Toronto press still has the effrontery to mention the faked-up story of the monkey wrench, which they alleged, was thrown at Charlie Quenneville years ago in the Arena.

The conduct of the New York, Toronto, Chicago and Montreal fans during the coming championship is no concern of ours but we should be vitally interested in our own actions.

It is far more important that Boston be regarded as the home of real sportsmen than to win the Stanley Cup. Victory accompanied by any infringement of the code of fair play is too costly.

No More Swim Races for a Former Star

Toronto, Ont., March 19 (AP)—Martha Norrellus Wright, former long distance swimming star of the United States, has definitely announced her retirement from competitive swimming.

This Expert Is Sure to Be Right

London, March 18.—The rowing critic of the Evening Standard, among other experts, is uncertain in his choice between Oxford at Cambridge crews for the historic Boat Race on the Thames on Saturday.

"On the river almost achieved Oxford should win by two lengths or more," he commented today. "From the form of the crews, I think the result will be the reverse."

62 Miles an Hour

Miami, March 18.—Gar Wood, American speed boat king, raced his Miss America four turns around the race course here at an average of 62.5 miles an hour.

NAVY TOURNEY BELL DEFEATS AT QUINCY

The Navy amateur boxing tournament at the Quincy Armory on Monday evening will have more than 100 entries. It will be the first boxing tournament in an armory in the State in many years and confirms the Boston Evening American's exclusive story that the armory have been opened to boxing.

With the 135-pound novice class and 126, 147, 160 and heavyweight classes open, all of the amateur boys of Brockton, Quincy, Stoughton and other cities and towns nearby will compete.

Rieve Balok and Mickey Bahor will not be allowed to box in order that some of the lighter lights may have a chance.

The military corps at the armory and the mayor of Quincy and the Quincy Council will attend.

All Sports DE LIMA STARS IN BIG MEET

William B. de Lima, captain of the Harvard varsity swimming team, established a new N. E. A. U. championship short-course record for the 500-yard free style, and broke two New England short-course records for the 220 and 440 yard free style distances at the third annual swimming meet held under the direction of the University Club at the University Club pool last night.

De Lima covered the 500-yard distance in 8 mins. 51.3 seconds, clipping 12 seconds from the old mark of 9 mins. 3.5 seconds, which he made himself last April at the Boston Y. M. C. A. While swimming in the trial of this event he set a new mark for the 220-yard freestyle by covering the distance in 2 mins. 31.5 seconds.

B. U. Lacrosse Squad Out

A squad of 40 Boston University lacrosse candidates reported to Coach Charles L. Nunnaker for first practice yesterday.

Get Your Thom McAns NOW... at Their Temporary Low Price

The same genuine calfskins, real oak tanned soles, scientific fit, large size range, unequalled value

YOU can now buy Thom McAn's famous shoes for the special price of $3.60. This is a temporary price; it cannot possibly last long.

Not the slightest change, remember, in the shoes themselves. They're exactly the same Thom McAns which sold for years at $4. The same Thom McAns which sold at the record-breaking rate of 4,400,000 pairs in 1930 alone!

Why is there such a vast number of enthusiastic Thom McAn customers?

Simply because everyone who wears a pair of Thom McAns quickly realizes that he is getting wonderful value in shoes—value which cannot be duplicated elsewhere at anywhere near the price.

For Boys who are hard on shoes: Thom McAn Boys' Shoes, now only $2.85. They're called "Dad's Doubles" because they're made just like men's shoes—quality leathers, oak tanned soles, super-strong construction.

GOLDBERG'S LIGHT FA VORITE OVER WAGNER

GUS' DRIVE TO SEE BOUT AT ARENA

Complete Card at Arena Tonight

Gus Sonnenberg vs. Jack Wagner (Fifteen match, best 2 in 3 falls).

Semi-Weight
Nick Laine vs. John Spellman (One fall, 45 minute time limit).
Casper Calk vs. John McHenry.
Al Morelli vs. Nick Skoloz.
Pat McKay vs. Dan Koffel.
Also Kaplan vs. Boris Dnestroff.

By JACK CONWAY

Gus Sonnenberg, with his bride of a week occupying a ring-side seat, will battle Jack Wagner of Providence in a finish wrestling bout, best two falls out of three, at the Arena tonight under the direction of Paul Bowser.

Although Sonnenberg is a slight favorite, Wagner has many backers who are of the opinion he will upset his famous rival.

Wagner has the record for holding the former champion. When they battled in Providence, it took Gus almost two hours to count with the first fall. A 2 a a canber was on the verge of defeat when he butted Wagner. The force of his butt took the pep out of Wagner and he was pinned.

Wagner now has a new defense for Sonny's butt and flying sculls. Jack is in excellent condition and confident he will leave the ring a winner.

Laine and Spellman in the Semifinal

Nick Laine of Southern California, who has taken Sonny's place as the leading challenger for a bout with Ed George, will mingle with John Spellman of Brea in a five-minute match in the semifinal.

Laine is one of the most popular wrestlers to ever show here. His spectacular reverse back loss has thrilled those fans who have seen him in his Boston matches. Laine announced today that, in the event he scores a victory over Spellman tonight and if then he gives a bout with Ed George, he will return to California. He believes there is a plot to keep him from getting another shot at George. He had the champion beaten when a loss from the ring sent him to the City Hospital with a slight concussion of the brain.

Al Morelli in Another Bid for Mat Fame

Al Morelli, Boston College athlete, will make another bid for mat honors when he will tackle Nick Skoloz, Greek heavyweight, on tonight's card. Morelli has won three bouts since he started wrestling as a pro. He has improved with each match.

Koffel is the best opponent Morelli has been called upon to meet to date. If the Boston College favorite can get by Koffel, he will be said that he has a bright mat future.

Dan Koffel, who has been wrestling in the Northwest, was sent to the local mat when he opposed Pat McKay, Irish heavyweight, in another bout. McKay has shown to advantage here in contests with Jack Sherry and Nick Laine.

McKay is much upset over the charge made at a State House hearing that he is a Greek. Pat's father was Scotch, his mother Irish, which he says makes a very good wrestling combination.

Also Kaplan of New York and Boris Dnestroff will collide in a U. C. bout.

U. C. Holds Sports Program Tonight

A varied assortment of sports will mark the final athletic night program tonight at the University Club. A buffet supper will be followed by an exhibition of squash between Union Root Club and the University Club.

On the bowling alleys there will be a pin tumbling contest between Harvard and Yale alumni. There will be a match between the Yale and Tufts. In the club pool, there will be an exhibition by the Boston Swimming Association, including about 50 of the leading swimmers of Boston.

The program will be concluded with amateur boxing in 150-pound and 160-pound classes.

Newton Town Team Arranging Schedule

Manager Pat DeLoe of the Newton Town team is making preparations for the season and is anxious to arrange his schedule.

The club in past years has been one of the best in the state and judging from the class of players lined up at the early season will be up among the leaders when the curtain is rung down. Games can be arranged by calling DeLoe at 309A.

COLLEGIANS GO ON STRIKE

Washington, Pa., March 19 (AP) Charging that he discriminated against athletes, students at Washington and Jefferson College today went on strike and demanded the removal of President Simon S. Baker.

A petition signed by 300 of the college's 400 students has been prepared for presentation to Judge James R. Brown, president of the board of trustees. It strikes leaders said.

The students contend that President Baker had discriminated against football and basketball players and has insisted that they maintain higher scholastic standards than students not engaged in sport. They also assert that he has enforced what they call "old-time" rules, including one against the wearing of ordinary trousers.

Dr. Baker denied the charges.

Reds One of Weakest Teams in Circuit

By JOE CASIMAN
St. Petersburg, March 19.—Unless Weymouth Dan Howley can engineer several advantageous trades shortly or can perform the miracle of developing a lot of second-rate cast-offs into stars, his Cincinnati Reds seemed doomed to occupy the National League cellar from the start to the finish of this year's race.

One of the strongest outfields in the league as late as 1928, the Reds have been allowed to crumble until, today, they show up as one of the weakest big league machines of modern times.

If Howley were to ask waivers on the nine he expects to field at the start of the season it is doubtful whether more than five of them would be held up.

And if the Weymouth pilot can escape the basement with a squad which boasts only a quarter of real players he will indeed deserve to be rated as the greatest diamond master mind ever.

Dan's "Big Five" are Lucas, Borkowski, and only the first two are batters.

Lucas is addition to being the club's best pitcher last season, was its best batter, and if he loses the batting crown this year, it will probably be to Sukkoff, one of the best catchers in the minors.

Best Hitters Will Spend Much Time on Bench
Since Lucas isn't likely to work more than twice a week and Sukkoff not more than five times a week on an average over the course of the season, the punch of the club promises to be on the bench half the time.

Strupp, who played both first and third last season but is carried in the hold down the hot corner regularly this year. Rottger in center field and Cuccinello, who is being converted from a third baseman into a second baseman, all show signs of developing into players of note, but as yet they are only average performers.

First base will be handed to Mickey Heath, a recruit from the Pacific Coast League who, at present, is on the injured list.

The youngster, it is said, looks O. K. in the field but very potent at the platter.

He'll have to be terribly weak to lose the job, for he has no rival, and Howley wants Strupp for third.

Durocher Will Play at Shortstop
At shortstop will be Leo Durocher, one of the Yankees' still one of the world's best fielders and worst hitters.

Howley doesn't know who he will use to flank Rottger, one of the remaining fly chasers being as good as the other.

The veteran Harry Heilmann, long past his prime, will be in there if he rounds into shape, but he is quite ill at present and it is questionable whether he will be able to do much, if any, more playing.

The other garden candidates are Charles Dickerson, who has been in the lineup for some time, and Somerville battery candidates for their first practice of the year this afternoon in the high school gym.

With a veteran infield, one of the best in the league, and a foundation, Dickerson hopes to build around it his strong lineup.

Danny Lynch is the best of the sound men. Bill Chatterfield in the outfield, Arthur Schatz at first, Kurken Jeremiah's second, Jack McNamara at short and Nick Tselio on third are other veterans.

GARDEN RIVALS READY FOR BATTLE
By KINGRIDE
Bat Battalion, world's featherweight champion, and Andy Callahan of Lawrence, today tapered off in their training for their 10-round bout which will be staged at the Boston Garden tomorrow night.

Battalion ended his heavy training in a local gym. He looked the part of a champion as he let his punches fly.

The Hartford warrior last showed here as an amateur. In 1927, he won the national championship in the 125-round class in a tourney at the Arena.

Battalion and Callahan collided as amateurs with Bat having the best of things. Callahan now wants to get revenge.

Battalion has always a good puncher. When he competed in the national championships in 1927, he knocked out five opponents. He has carried the same sock into the pro ranks.

The Hartford featherweight won the world's title when he upset Andre Rottier. He was not rated highly as a title holder until he outscored Ric Chocolate in New York last December. Bat clicked in that match, especially when he came up off the floor fighting in the first round.

Zeramy and Abella in Semifinal
Jake Zeramy, Lynn lightweight, who has won three straight bouts, will oppose Leo Abella of the Philippines in the seven-round semifinal.

Abella recently won from Henry Janco of Lawrence at the Garden.

Tommy King of Fall River, who has won three straight bouts, will oppose Frank Herlihy of Lora in one of the five-rounders.

Eddie Mack of the Arizona Club announces he will not make any effort to interfere with the Garden show.

Somerville Begins Baseball Practice
Charles Dickerson will have the Somerville battery candidates for their first practice of the year this afternoon in the high school gym.

With a veteran infield, one of the best in the league, and a foundation, Dickerson hopes to build around it his strong lineup.

Danny Lynch is the best of the sound men. Bill Chatterfield in the outfield, Arthur Schatz at first, Kurken Jeremiah's second, Jack McNamara at short and Nick Tselio on third are other veterans.

If You Can Pick the Expensive Custom Bootmakers' Originals from the Regal Reproductions—We'll Give You a Pair of Shoes

This week, Friday and Saturday, we are showing in all Regal Shoe store windows, 8 of the most expensive and exclusive styles for Spring 1931, produced by the best Custom Bootmakers in the world, and reproduced by Regal for you at $6.60.

Beside each of the 8 Original Custom Bootmakers' models, we are placing the Regal Reproduction. For instance, if the "Right" of any pair was made by the King's Own Bootmaker in London and cost us £5.17.6 or $28.60—the "Left" shoe of the same pair is the Regal Reproduction, and costs you $6.60.

We don't know how to make the comparison any easier for you or the test more difficult for us. And if you can pick the 8 Original Custom models from the 8 Regal Reproductions during the compare contest, we'll make you a present of a pair of Regal Shoes. But it isn't as simple as it sounds. The lasts are identical in measurement and appearance, and in most instances we are using the same Upper Leather as in the Original Custom Made Model.

Some of our own men couldn't tell the difference between the Original and Reproduction in our own windows. When we showed the two shoes together to the Custom Bootmakers in England, they had great difficulty in picking the shoe they made from the Regal Reproduction.

We then sawed the shoe in halves and let them examine the solid leather heel, the outer sole, inner sole, counter, toe box, lining, upper leather, and they were amazed at the value that we could put into a shoe to sell for $6.60. (See Bartley & Sons' letter)

W. HOOKE CLUB BLANKED

The University Club retained its New England amateur hockey title by defeating the Boston Hock Club, 1 to 0, in the third and deciding game of their three-game series at the Arena last night.

Doug Everett, former Dartmouth star, scored the only goal of the game when he picked up a pass from Channing Hilliard and slammed the puck past net keeper Fred Fraser and three minutes of play in the first period.

The Hock Club fought desperately to tie the score, but the University Club checked back better than at any other time this winter and made Goals Harry Kelly job a comparatively easy one. Ding Palmer and Johnny Garrison gave their outstretched excellent support in breaking up the Hock Club rallies.

After Peterson was called for tripping Higgins half way through the first period, the University Club rushed to the attack. Johnny Garrison weaved through the weakened hock club defense, pulled out Fraser and three minutes of play in the first period.

Hilliard passed to Everett, and the former Dartmouth star slammed the puck past Fraser.

The old Yale combination of Paul Curtis and Don Palmer broke through for another goal after five minutes of play in the third period. Palmer tripped away from Curtis and picked up the puck at the defense. He skated away, but the puck missed the far corner by an inch. With four minutes to play, the Hock Club sent four men up the ice. Ellis came to the net to make a stop and three minutes of play in the first period.

Chase returned and in Garrison carried the day in or Fraser. The Hock Club goalie made a great save on Chase's shot and followed it up with another in the second period when Garrison attempted to convert the rebound.
